TALMADGE PLAN FOR COTTON BAN BEFORE PARLEY

Governors Will Be Asked To Decide Today Between Georgian's 1934
Holiday Proposal and Control at Gins.

COMMITTEE FAVORS RESTRICTION PLAN

Spirited Battle Seen in Memphis as Georgia
Man Leads Fight for Rigid Ban.

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Dec. 28.—(AP)—Two proposals emerged today from a committee meeting called to determine what to do about the deluge of low-priced cotton.

The proposals, the minority one favoring the Long-Talmadge cotton holiday for 1934, and the majority urging the stabilization of production and marketing by legislative control of the gins, will be submitted to a south-wide conference of governors tomorrow.

Governor Conner, of Mississippi, who sponsored the call, was expected in early tonight. Governor Parnell, of Arkansas; Governor-elect Talmadge, of Georgia; Governor Murray, of Oklahoma; and Governor Blackwell, of South Carolina, are expected tomorrow. Representatives of the governors of Texas, Louisiana and other states also will be in attendance. Illness will prevent the appearance of Governor-elect Hill McAlister, of Tennessee.

Holiday Backed.
Claiming that many cotton farmers are on the verge of bankruptcy, State Senator W. B. Roberts, of Bolivar county, Mississippi, fought furiously before the committee for the indefinite postponement of the legislative control of the gins, and for the adoption of the cotton holiday plan.

The holiday plan, originally sponsored by Governor-elect Talmadge, of Georgia, has suggested its enforcement for the year 1934, allowing the farmers a year in which to prepare for its operation.

"We've got to do something drastic," Senator Roberts said. "We've got to act in common, or all go to hell together. We must end this deluge of cotton."

Senator Roberts predicted the arrival of Talmadge and said he was one of the "lightning" men he had ever known. He said the Georgian would fight for the adoption of the proposal.

C. G. Smith, of Blytheville, Ark., pronounced Roberts' suggestion impractical and said it would "bankrupt the south." Smith agreed to put aside his own plan for a 50 per cent reduction in acreage and the rehabilitation of the land in favor of a proposal advanced by Dr. Tait Butler, of Memphis, chairman of the committee. Smith said he would withdraw his plan for the sake of harmonious committee agreement.

Estimate of Needs.

The Butler proposal would provide that economists estimate the sales of cotton the world will consume each year, beginning with 1933, taking the surplus and carryover into consideration. The estimate would be based on a demand for cotton at about 10 cents a pound.

If the economists estimated a demand for 10,000,000 bales, the bales would be prorated among the cotton growing states. Unpaid commissions in each state would prororate the balance.

Drowning Boy Warns Playmates Off Ice

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., Dec. 28.—(UP)—A small boy drowned in the Mississippi river today as he warned three playmates off the thin ice, through which he had plunged when they sought to rescue him.

The lad, Michael Irmen, 10, had been sliding down a hill on a slab of sheet iron. His improvised sled slid down over a 15-foot cliff and plunged through the thin ice below.

The three playmates rushed down to the river's edge but stopped short when Michael warned them away. Police and firemen recovered Michael's body.

WINNIE RUTH JUDD TELLS HER STORY TO GRAND JURORS

Condemned Woman's Version of "Whole Truth"
in Double Slaying Bared
Behind Locked Doors.

PHOENIX, Ariz., Dec. 28.—(AP)—Winnie Ruth Judd, under sentence to be hanged for the "trunk murder" of one of two women friends, was a witness before the Maricopa county grand jury today.

Called before the inquisitorial body by subpoena, she was clothed with its members more than four hours, but what she said remained an official secret.

Tonight she was back in her cell in the state prison at Florence.

She was reported generally to have retold in detail one or more of her previous stories of the slaying of Agnes Anne Lerol, for whose death she is under sentence to be hanged February 17, and the killing of Hedvig Samuelson, for which a murder complaint still is pending against her. No official confirmation was available, however, of anything she may have said.

The grand jury's action in summoning Mrs. Judd followed recently renewed threats by both the condemned woman and her husband, Dr. W. C. Judd, to "tell all." Both have said the whole truth would absolve Mrs. Judd of part of the crime.

Body Disembowered.
The bodies of both women victims were found in a Los Angeles railway station. Miss Samuelson's body had been disembowered.

Dr. Judd attempted to visit his wife at the prison today, found her gone, and then returned to Phoenix to meet her when she finished her testimony in the grand jury room.

The grand jury is not able to take any action which would aid or otherwise affect Mrs. Judd's attempt to escape hanging, except indirectly, in the weekly investigation procedure.

As for the supreme court, only the board of pardons and paroles has the power to halt execution of sentence.

Former Tennis Champ Hurls Self to Death

NEW YORK, Dec. 28.—(AP)—Suffering from a nervous collapse, Malcolm D. Whitman, three national tennis singles champion, jumped to his death today from the roof of his East Sixty-seventh street apartment.

Whitman, 35 years old, prominently for years with the eastern textile industry, had been under the care of physicians and two nurses for the past year.

Whitman, who was a near-by room when Whitman brushed aside the nurse, climbed on a parapet on the roof, jumped.

In 1898, 1899 and 1900, Whitman—fresh from college championships at Harvard—won the national singles championship. In 1908 he won out over Dwight F. Davis, former secretary of war and donor of the Davis cup.

In 1901 Whitman defaulted, allowing William Larned to win. The next year Whitman came back, finishing as runner-up. In 1900 Whitman was a member of the first Davis cup team.

After entering into the business of his father, the Whitman Manufacturing Company, of Boston, the former champion maintained his interest in tennis and, at the time of his death, was an honorary member of the United States Lawn Tennis Association.

West Point Citizens Leave Homes as Flood Sweeps on City

At West Point residents battled high waters Wednesday and prepared for even more serious flood conditions today and Friday. At the upper left is shown the home of Policeman J. T. Jenkins, on College street. The first-floor doomed to inundation, all the furniture in the house has been moved to the top story. At the upper right is a scene along College street, and shows a family embarking on a boat ride to the safety of higher ground. The bottom picture shows Policeman Jenkins' live stock—a cow, a goat and a dog—being led to safety through the ever rising waters.

RAILROADS BACK PRESENT CHARGES

Increased Rates Can't Be Cut, Spokesmen Tell
Federal Commission.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 28.—(AP)—Railroad spokesmen seeking continuance of existing increased freight rates told the interstate commerce commission today that the country's railways are running "in the red" to the tune of $200,000,000 a year.

Dr. Julius Parmelee, head of the railroad-operated bureau of railway economics, said only about thirty Class 1 railroads are making more than bare expenses. Deficits, he said, have been reported for the first nine months of the year by 122 lines operating 187,921 miles of track.

Parmelee and E. G. Buckland, president of the Railroad Credit Corporation, were the principal witnesses at the opening of hearings on the railroads' appeal for continuance of surcharges on freight bills which became effective last January and automatically expire March 31. Commissioners Meyer, Eastman, Porter and Lewis are hearing the case.

The railroads are asking not only that the increases be continued, but that the pooling arrangement devised by the commission be abolished.

Parmelee told the commission that the surcharges, estimated a year ago to produce approximately $125,000,000, had been the source of only $52,295,225 during the first nine months of the year. He urged that the railroads be permitted to discontinue the pooling arrangement and that each carrier retain the proceeds of the increases collected by it.

Parmelee testified that operating losses had been domestic difficulties.

Mrs. E. H. Hutcheson, 44, of 87 The Prado, whose husband is connected with the M. H. Scraws Realty Company, probably fatally shot herself in the abdomen Wednesday night in her bedroom, according to police reports. She was taken to Grady hospital, where her condition was said to be critical. She was discovered by C. E. Marshall and H. L. Driscoll, who reside at the same apartment-house.

A note left by Mrs. Hutcheson, being of sound body and mind, do hereby leave my things to Bobby and my mother, except what Daddy wants of my furniture. Please notify D. J. Smith, of 449 Chandler street, Decatur. Mr. Smith is employed by the same firm as her husband. He told police Mrs. Hutcheson told him earlier Wednesday night that she was going to "end it all," because of domestic difficulties. Mrs. Hutcheson has a daughter, Mrs. Marion Moore, of Jackson, Tenn., it was said.

Atlantans Share Tax Refunds Granted by Federal Treasury

WASHINGTON, Dec. 28.—(AP)—Three residents of Atlanta got back from the federal government last year more money than any concern in Georgia.

The tax refunds to them were reported to congress today by the treasury, representing amounts repaid to taxpayers because of previous erroneous collections.

The Atlantans benefitting by sizeable sums were John W. Grant, who drew $36,205; Samuel C. Dobbs Sr., $31,999; and his son, Samuel C. Dobbs Jr., $8,101. The total for the Dobbs family was bigger than Grant's, but the latter remained the individual receiving the largest refund in the state.

Georgia refunds of more than $1,000 follow:

Mrs. Lily C. Beall, 1260 West Peachtree street, Atlanta, $1,602; Eugene R. Black, 1614 Peachtree road, Atlanta, $1,088; D. G. Bland, Atlanta, $2,328; Bright Brooks Lumber Company, Savannah, $1,090; estate of

HOUSE DEMOCRATS PURSUE SLIM HOPE FOR TAX MEASURE

WASHINGTON, Dec. 28.—(AP)—A new search for additional sources of revenue to balance the budget was initiated today by democratic house leaders although the possibility of enacting a general tax bill at this session sharply diminished.

Reports from Albany, N. Y., that President-elect Roosevelt did not favor the suggested manufacturers' sales tax led both Speaker Garner and Chairman Collier of the house ways and means committee to say that "developments in the last 24 hours" practically ended all prospects of that sort of levy for the present.

"I don't think there will be a general revenue bill passed at this session," Representative Rainer, of Illinois, the democratic floor leader said, adding the federal gasoline tax probably would be extended another year.

Garner said he would "like to see the budget balanced," because he believed it "essential to the country."

Meanwhile, Collier delayed the next meeting of his committee—the revenue initiating group in congress—until January 4. At that time he plans to have the financial affairs of the government surveyed from a view of determining what course will be followed.

"I always thought the manufacturers' sales tax would be hard to get passed now with recent developments," the Mississippi democrat said. He stressed that he had not discussed the question of additional revenue with Mr. Roosevelt, and said he did not think his committee had enough time to secure complete revision of the tax laws at this session.

Meanwhile, Garner declined to say whether he had accepted a reported invitation to meet with Roosevelt in Albany within the next two weeks to discuss the matter.

At great length the letter set forth that the quarter needed funds, decided to sidestep the first person they saw driving alone, and demand damages to loan money for food and gasoline.

The writer said he had been forced to sign a paper admitting the killing, and said one of the other three was guilty.

Meanwhile Virginia officials checked all known angles of the case in the state capital, and a woman identified a Richmond (Va.) filling station and asking the way to Lynchburg and Farmville.

Near Hagerstown, Md., and L. S. Slight, nephew of McCoin, a member of the North Carolina advisory slitting commission, joined in a search for his body and ashes of his burned clothes.

The letter, addressed to the "Chief Judge of the North Carolina Supreme Court" at Raleigh, the writer said he met three men whom he knew as "Jumbo," "Slim" and "Shorty" in Jacksonville, Fla. These three had an automobile, he said, and needed money to get north. The writer said he furnished $6 for food and gas, and that they ran out of money near Petersburg, Va.

Between Petersburg and Richmond, the writer said, "Jumbo" was driving and he ran into the next car he met. The driver protested the demand for $15 and "Shorty" ran up and hit the man on the head with a blackjack.

Then they went on to Chicago after the writer said, the slain man's car was left in Columbus, in Chicago, the writer of the letter said, the other three locked him in a room and he never saw them again.

H. said later "an old man" came and made him sign a paper, saying he had accidentally killed the motorist.

Man, Critically Hurt, Is Found on Street

A man identified by papers in his pocket as Charles Mason, about 35, was found on a sidewalk on Wednesday morning, with the torso of his body lying on the ground, and his head on the sidewalk.

Several side roads and at least one secondary highway were inundated, causing Mr. Hendrix to order barricades and guards placed to halt traffic.

ATHENS, Dec. 28.—(AP)—Samuel Insull, who appeals refused to extradite him to the United States, said today he intended to remain in Greece indefinitely.

He gave no detailed account of his plans, but friends said he would establish himself in this country and organize a business. Temporarily he is living in a hotel, waiting the arrival of his wife, who has been in Paris several months.

New Party Lineup in South Predicted by Dr. C. B. Gosnell

DETROIT, Dec. 28.—(AP)—A prediction that the "old south" will be broken and progressive and conservative parties will be formed from the democratic and republican lineups were made here today by Dr. Cullen R. Gosnell, president of the Southern Political Science Association.

Dr. Gosnell said the party alignments of the future will be along economic lines rather than sectional and this would result in smashing traditions in the south. Dr. Gosnell, associate professor of history and government at Emory University, Atlanta, addressed the meeting of the American Political Science Association.

"I venture the prediction that in the future the progressives will join together to form one party and the conservatives will do likewise," Dr. Gosnell said. "Possibly the farm element of the south will become the new progressive democrats, joining with the progressives of the east and

Mountain Continues Breaking-Up Process

DURANGO, Colo., Dec. 28.—(AP)—Carbon mountain continued to move steadily over the landscape today, hurling down tons of rock and earth into surrounding valleys.

One entire section gave way today, causing a landslide which killed a man and a woman and injured a third.

Geologists said two distinct actions are now in progress, one moving southeast that part of the mountain north of the fault on mass, and the other on the north face causing avalanches to run to the floor of the Animas valley, where a huge pile of rubble has been formed.

Liner Seaman Killed As Big Wave Rakes Ship

NEW YORK, Dec. 28.—(AP)—The Majestic, one of the largest liners afloat, arrived in port today with the forward section of her forecastle battered by a freak wave which caused the death of a sailor and injured others.

The story those aboard told was this:

As the liner was moving slowly toward the United States with her speed reduced to eight knots, the wave, technically known as an "accumulative," smashed over the prow, struck the forecastle head-on, tore open a bulkhead, flooded the lower decks, swept everything ahead and caused the entire ship to shake under the impact.

J. N. Johnston, an able seaman, was in deckhouse B and was thrown so violently against a metal wall that he later died of the injuries.

A 60-mile-an-hour wind was blowing when the incident occurred, said officers aboard, but after the one turbulent onslaught, the sea subsided and no more rough weather was encountered.

MIAMI, Fla., Dec. 28.—(AP)—The body of a man shot through the heart and buried in the sand of Harry Summerson, 52, of Coral Gables, was found in an automobile in an outlying part of the city at noon today.

I am tired of it all," said a note found by the body.

Several days later their bodies were found in two trunks in a Los Angeles railroad station.

Struck in the eye by a nail which he was attempting to drive into a plank, Jimmy Abraham, 41, son of Mr. and Mrs. M. M. Abraham, of 95 Fair street, may lose the use of the eye, according to attaches. He was admitted to the hospital for treatment.

Julius Puckett, 12, of 756 Oliver street, almost cut his nose off Wednesday night when he fell against a table while leaving a downtown theater, he told hospital attaches. The cut was severe and was taken to the main operating room, where physicians took a large number of stitches.

Three youths were treated for fractures received in falls while skating. They were Hubert Echols, 16, of 843 Harold avenue; John Scoggin, 13, of 260 Ponce de Leon avenue; and Gordon Enloe, 15, of 853 Highland terrace.

Today, trying up traffic on the Murphree division throughout the day, one member of the crew was slightly injured.

Several other landslides, attributed to thawing out following the recent cold wave, were reported in this section. Swollen mountain streams were receding late today.

NEW YORK WATCHES SOUTH AFRICAN STRUGGLES

NEW YORK, Dec. 28.—(AP)—Although South Africa is remote from North America, both in distance and in terms of commerce between the two, Wall Street bankers show a lively interest in the struggle of the South African Union to preserve the gold standard.

South Africa is the largest gold producing country. About one-half the world's output comes from a single reef of rocks in the interior about 1,000 miles Intimation that members of the county commission have said all they intend to say on the matter and will take no more cognizance of the controversy between them and J. W. Simmons, clerk of superior court, over his failure to suspend two deputies at request of the board, was seen Wednesday night following an informal discussion between Simmons and four commissioners.

Simmons refused to suspend the two deputy clerks and when the board made a public statement refusing to leave its original stand he sought an audience, Wednesday night he met four members of the board in the office of its chairman, but due to the absence of George F. Longino Jr., the 1933 chairman, the session was not

120-Year-Old Sioux Brave Joins Indian 'Great Spirit'

RED WING, Minn., Dec. 28.—(AP)—The tom toms are still—Indian John, 120-year-old Sioux, who was reared to the tune of the war drums and the battle cries of his ancestors, has joined the "Great Spirit."

The aged Sioux, whose tribal name was Tukaneuhbeska, which meant "Hoping Stone," born during the War of 1812, friends assert, on the present site of Red Wing, died at his home yesterday on Prairie Island, in the Mississippi river bottoms near here.

The beat of the war drums—the call of the tribe to battle—summoned Indian John numerous times in his early manhood to repel the invasions of the white man. More than one "paleface" scalp hung from his belt, members of the tribe assert.

held, Simmons, it was understood, however, told the board members present that he wants to co-operate with them, but did not promise to accede to their wishes.

The Simmons controversy may be renewed at the first meeting of the year, when salaries for deputies and employees will be fixed for the year.

VITAL 'LIFE' RAYS DISCOVERED, CLAIM OF N. Y. SCIENTIST

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Dec. 28.—(AP)—Claim that he has discovered vital "life" rays in radiations beyond the shortest visible rays of light was made tonight by Dimitry Borodin, of New York, before the American Association for the Advancement of Science.

These invisible rays, he says, are responsible for the "mutations" of heredity, the changes which cause every person to be different in some details of appearance and character from every other person on earth.

These "mutations" are caused by alterations in "genes" the determiners of hereditary characters for all men, animals and plants. The rays, he says, are generated by all living bodies and hence reach and change the genes. The rays range from 2,800 Angstrom units down to 1,800, which means that they are very short wave forms of ultra violet "light."

The existence of such rays has been studied by scientists for some time. What Dr. Borodin claims to have discovered is how they affect life at its beginnings. He detected these activities by use of the spectroscopic.

Russia Ruled by New Despotism, Miss Christensen Tells Masons

Russia has exchanged the old despotism of the czars for a new aristocracy and despotism of officials and police, Miss Alva Christensen told the members of the Masonic Club at their luncheon meeting Wednesday at the Winocoff hotel.

In no country is there as great an inequity as in Russia, she said. She told of dining at a hotel on Filomignion and French pastries that no Parisian chef could have equalled, and of seeing children in the same territory eating grass.

Miss Christensen and Miss Mary De Givie, both of Atlanta, recently returned from Russia. The two will deliver a series of 18 lectures and write a book about their adventures during an automobile tour of the soviet.

"We went to Russia as pro-communists," said Miss Christensen, "but let me tell you, we are back as capitalists. I heard a lot on my return about the depression, but Americans haven't seen a depression such as exists in Germany and France today, and especially in Russia, where the depression is worst of all."

"Starvation among the masses is widespread. The peasants sold us they managed to exist in the summer when they had vegetables and melons, but they didn't know what would become of them in the winter. We saw in the Ukraine, richest wheat-growing section in the world, children eating grass."

In answer to a question, however, Miss Christensen said she had not seen any bands of wild, roving children, deserted by their parents, as had been reported and pictured. She also said that the soviet attitude toward the churches had been exag-

LINDER, DE LAPIERRE GO TO COTTON MEET

Tom Linder, assistant to Commissioner of Agriculture Eugene Talmadge, and Herman DeLapierre, of Hoschton, left Wednesday night for Memphis, where they will represent Georgia at a conference today among governors of the cotton states to discuss cotton problems.

Linder will represent Governor-elect Eugene Talmadge and DeLapierre will represent Governor Richard B. Russell Jr. The conference was called by Governor Bennett Conner, of Mississippi, and will be attended by representatives of all cotton states.

Governor Russell and Governor-elect Talmadge were unable to attend because of the pressure of their duties, the former preparing to turn over his office to the latter on January 10.

Adams To Take Post As Farm Head Jan. 3

G. Claude Adams, of Covington, will take office as commissioner of agriculture, succeeding Eugene Talmadge, the governor-elect, on January 3, it was announced Wednesday at the capitol. Mr. Adams is expected to come from Covington today and share Mr. Talmadge's offices with him throughout the remaining few days of the Talmadge term.

It is expected that Mr. Adams will make public his official list of appointments on Saturday. Most of those now in the agricultural department are expected to move into other posts after Mr. Talmadge's inauguration as governor on January 10.

The new commissioner has given no indication as to whom he will appoint to various posts in his office. It is expected, however, that J. W. Rountree, former Atlanta congressman, will have an important post, and that Judge Max McKee, of McRae, also will hold a high office.

GRANDCHILDREN SHARE MRS. RITTER'S ESTATE

The will of Mrs. Harriet Ritter, wife of the late Edward Ritter, was filed for probate in solemn form with the ordinary of Fulton county Wednesday. Her grandchildren are named principal beneficiaries. The estate, including much Atlanta real estate, is reported to be a large one.

Five of the six grandchildren are named beneficiaries. They are J. Edwin Liebman, Mrs. Edith L. Weinberger, Mrs. Blanche L. Levinson, Isabel Liebman and Mrs. Emilie L. Wolfson. Mrs. Helen Liebman, wife of Jay S. Liebman, another grandchild, is left a life interest in the remaining one-sixth of the estate if she does not remarry. If she does, the will stipulates that the interest will be placed in trust for her minor child, Sarah Frances Liebman.

In a codicil dated October, 1925, $250 is bequeathed to Miss Helen Young, "nurse and friend," and a trust fund of $1,500 is set up for the benefit of a sister, Mrs. Angeline Pollock. The original will was dated June 18, 1924, and the four granddaughters are named executors.

POWER CO. PLANS $5,000,000 ISSUE

Bonds Will Cover Note and Strengthen Company's Financial Condition.

Directors of the Georgia Power Company have authorized the issuance of $5,000,000 in bonds to cover an underlying note issue due on May 1, it was announced Wednesday.

In order to strengthen the company's financial structure, the directors also have voted to retire and cancel 100,000 shares of the company's first preferred $5 stock and 400,000 shares of the company's second preferred stock, all owned by the Commonwealth & Southern Company, the Wednesday announcement further stated.

Preston S. Arkwright, president of the Georgia Power Company, said the reduction of the first preferred stock and the elimination of the second preferred issue would greatly strengthen the financial position of the company. Application for approval of the issuance of the $5,000,000 in bonds already has been filed with the Georgia public service commission, Mr. Arkwright announced.

According to the petition the bonds will bear 5 per cent interest and are to be retired in 1967.

MACHINE COMPANY OPENS BRANCH HERE

The Union Special Machine Company, a large national concern handling the service and sales of industrial sewing machines, has leased a portion of the McCrary building at 100-2 Williams street, corner of Spring street, according to an announcement Wednesday by John O. DuPree, who handled the transaction.

The company will open its southern branch office in this building, from which it will handle its operations in Georgia, Alabama, Louisiana, Mississippi, Florida, the Carolinas and Virginia. The company had already operated in this territory, but is now opening a branch on the ground floor of its new location, where it will employ about 20 people.

Announcement was also made that P. T. McLendon had been promoted to the position of branch manager, and H. A. Sims had been made his assistant. Mr. McLendon, a native of Macon, has been with the company for 20 years. Mr. Sims came from Lafayette, Ga., and has been with the company for 10 years.

The factory and headquarters of the company are in Chicago. Its product is used in garment-making plants, shoe and mattress factories, and tent and awning shops.

Mr. DuPree said Mr. McLendon had a home for $10,000 cash at 1745 Pelham road, in Morningside. This is a new bungalow built by J. R. Jordan. The company plans eventually to enlarge its quarters here. For the present it will use part of the ground floor space of the McCrary building.

Weisiger and Smith Seen for Grady Board

Reappointment of Kendall Weisiger and John E. Smith as members of the Grady hospital board probably will be made by Mayor Key when their terms expire in January, it was learned at the city hall Wednesday.

The mayor also is expected to reappoint Wilbur G. Kurtz, A. Ten Eyck Brown and Walter S. McNeal as members of the city planning commission. As members of the board of plumbing examiners, created by a recent ordinance, the mayor named Ben J. Seckinger and P. L. Guest, master plumbers; George M. Bryant and L. R. Williams as journeymen plumbers. E. G. Quarles, city plumbing inspector, is the fifth member of this commission.

Banks Paid $377,000 From City Treasury

While one branch of the city government Wednesday was paying off current indebtedness, another was anticipating a decrease of approximately $900,000 in revenue for 1933.

City Comptroller B. Graham West drew the city's check for $377,000, making a total of $1,400,000 paid the banks since October. It will be necessary to draw on the 1933 borrowing power to pay about $700,000 interest and principal on bonds due January 1, West said.

City tax assessors reported that the city's revenue from the valorem taxes would shrink $183,718.67 under the current budget and that 1933 receipts from ad valorem taxes, due to reduced property values, would be only approximately $900,000.

This year the assessors have written 29,280 ft. fas. covering delinquent taxes of $1,472,290.71, approximately 25 per cent of the total. Last year 25,982 were written for $1,261,630.93.

REGISTRATION BOARD CONCLUDES ITS WORK

Mayor Key's special committee to work out details of a permanent registration law for city primaries and city elections concluded its work Wednesday and will submit its report to council Monday, Dr. Samuel Green, chairman, announced.

Included in the details are provisions for elimination of any multiple voting by requiring the voter to vote in the precinct of the ward in which he lives and a tax payment record of 10 years. If the committee system is approved by council the Fulton delegation will be asked to have the city charter amended.

Members of the committee, besides Chairman Green, are Mrs. Leopold Haas, Alderman Alvin Richards, Councilman H. M. Rantlin, Mrs. R. L. Turman and Preston Winborne.

NEGLIGENCE IS BLAMED FOR HEAVY MINE TOLL

WASHINGTON, Dec. 28.—(AP)—Coal mine disasters in the country, including the Moweaqua, Ill., explosion, claimed a total of 92 lives in December as compared with 54 for the other eleven months of the year.

Daniel Harrington, chief of the safety division of the bureau of mines, in giving these figures, said he had received a brief report from field representatives stating that the Moweaqua mine had been operating without rock dusting and with open lights and that a fire in the mine had been sealed shortly before the fatal explosion.

In discussing efforts made by the bureau for general adoption of safety devices, Harrington said "90 per cent of the explosions in coal mines are due to negligence."

FINAL INSTALLMENT.

He went, convinced that the outraged prospect would have departed by the time he returned. . . . But they had not. Their car was still before the door when he came back and he hastened inside, braced for some new crisis. Valentine met him on the threshold with a murmured "Thank heaven—at last!" Mrs. Deland, now very red and spent, still paced the floor and unburdened her mind of its grievances against her silent husband who sat on the sofa staring into the fire. Lars Larson stood by.

And then Valentine came back from the kitchen and there fell upon the room suddenly a peace that was shocking for its marvellous stillness. Lars Larson audibly, to be sure, and the fire crackled; but these were not noises, they were pleasant little notes in the harmony of the quiet. With a startled feeling Johnny realized that Valentine had cleared both heart and rug of the spilled milk and broken glass and there was a new neatness and freshness about the entire room as if she might also have done some dusting. His elbow on the mantelpiece, he stared down at her as if he had never seen her before. She was beautiful in the firelight, he saw that with a wrench at his heart, but that was not all. There was something new about her, something older and soberer than he remembered. . . .

Mr. Deland's voice suddenly cut into his thought, the little man starting.

"I beg your pardon?" queried Valentine, who sat beside him.

"Retreat," he repeated firmly. "I won't wear them, American colonies. Full of herbs and apologies." He waved and eyed his wife with something like the sullenness of a disobedient small boy. "Apologies for being Americans? I've heard 'em. What are they doing over there in France, those Americans? Working? Helping to get American business on its feet?"

"Only trying," said his wife, shifting the lumpy weight of the baby to a more comfortable place in her lap, "to keep up a few of their old standards. Living the way they were used to living before this annoying depression and doing it on half the money it cost them here. And that's why we're sailing," she concluded firmly, "the tenth of June."

"The way they're used to living," snapped Mr. Deland, scornfully. "That's exactly the trouble. People afraid to start over again and live the way they lived before they began to appearances. Sticking in a rut of soft living and can't get out of it to put their backs into a new order of things. Makes me sick."

"Sentimental, that's what you are, George."

"Nothing," proclaimed Mr. Deland, "is worth a damn that a man can't get sentimental about. Homes, children, families. He waved a hand generously, "gathered around the hearth."

His wife looked ashamed of him. She appealed to Valentine.

"As if we, with our daughter married and about to have a child of her own, came in that category," she said. "Not that I," she added hastily, "would not on my daughter's account rather stay. I would. But it is out of the question. We lived in Shipley-on-Hudson for 25 years and we had a wonderful community life there. A fine civic club—an active league of women voters—a splendid garden club. The very nicest people—she sighed, "With our income cut about two-thirds of what it was, naturally we have to leave and where—" she raised her heavy brows eloquently—

"Six thousand," said Johnny. "There was a moment of silence. The fire hissed faintly and a burnt log broke and fell into embers. The baby in Mrs. Deland's lap released the nipple from his mouth and it made a queer little shocking plop in the quiet. Mr. Deland started in the quiet. "Imagine—imagine," he began of nobody in particular, "being able to drop in on Janet and Bill every morning or evening to see how the little fellow's getting on."

Mrs. Deland's short laugh of derision cut him off.

"Hardly possible to imagine," she said. "Johnny and I lived in the same neighborhood."

"Well, why not?" demanded her husband truculently. Obviously his desire to be an actor and mandarin grandparent was leading him to renewed force. "At that price—that's the best price we've met with so far—we could get Janet and Bill out of that stuffy little apartment in town. City's no place for a baby. And if you," he plunged on hurriedly as she showed unmistakable signs of protest, "just put your mind to it you could persuade the Gerards and the others to settle here." He flung about to Valentine. "Look here! You find this house comfortable, don't you? You're happy here, aren't you?"

Johnny coughed loudly and became red to his ears. Valentine blushed.

"I—well, you see, Mr. Deland, we don't live here. That is," she flourished, aware of Mrs. Deland's tri-

"can we go and be sure of any sort of decent social life?" remarked Mr. Deland dryly, "looked very much like when we first went there. We were about the third young couple to settle there. The Gerards and the Unwins were there, I believe, before us. And now they're broke, too. Also leaving Shipley. The Harries, too."

"Not the Harries?" Mrs. Deland looked appalled.

He nodded grimly. "I saw Bill Harries this morning and he said, 'George, how's everything in Mortgage-on-Hudson?' Said his firm had folded up. Didn't see how he could keep on paying $5,000 a year to keep his grass cut. They're living—he snorted—"the way we are. In a hotel."

"The Harries, too. The Gerards," mused Mrs. Deland, "had to sell their lovely place four months ago. And the Unwins are living with a married daughter—I can't realize," she said to Valentine, "that it's all over—the nice life we all had there."

"But why," asked Valentine gently, "do you need it so?"

They gazed at her incredulously. She laughed softly.

"Why don't you all be together again? Somewhere else. Settle down, I mean, in the same place. Even if the houses were ever so much smaller than you've been used to you'd have your old life pretty much the same if you were near some neighbors around you." She smiled at Mr. Deland. "Bridge down to a tenth of a cent, maybe. Not much more difference than that really."

Mr. Deland gazed at her reverently. Johnny took his elbow off the mantel and lit a cigarette. Something was happening. A curious excitement was rising in him.

"Price," said Mr. Deland after a moment. "Some of 'em pretty hard hit. Others not so bad. Might be hard to do."

"No," said Johnny, a little surprised at the sound of his own voice raised in connection with real estate. "With houses selling in bunches like that—he laughed at the enormity of such a notion—"a firm would be able to cut its price."

"How much?" Johnny shook his head, refusing to press his stroke.

"I could only speak," he said, "for our firm. I don't know what another firm would do."

"Well," Mr. Deland's tone was impatient. He puffed furiously upon a cigar which had gone out. "Well? Your father coughed eight thousand."

Johnny drew a long breath. "Forty minutes from New York. Seven rooms, two baths, two car garage, electric refrigeration—"

"How much?" demanded Mr. Deland.

"Six thousand," said Johnny. "The Danish ward of the Junior League lay upon the divan before a dying fire. One of his hands had gone up, his sleeve and one of his capstrops draped his ear. But he slept, his inner man at peace.

"We must take that poor lamb home," said a slightly nervous voice from the other end of the sofa.

"When he wakes," said a man's voice earnestly, "I'm going to apologize to him. The lad's a selling genius."

A long, contented sigh came from Valentine.

"Oh, Johnny," she said profoundly, "isn't the depression the darlingest thing?"

The End.

ROOSEVELT SEEKS FINANCIAL FACTS

Will Not Commit Self on Tax Policy Before Thorough Study.

ALBANY, N. Y., Dec. 28.—(P)—President-elect Roosevelt will see first-hand information on the nation's financial situation, it became known today, before committing himself to any tax policy.

The gathering of this information will be one of the first tasks to which Mr. Roosevelt will set himself after his term as governor ends next Saturday.

In this connection Mr. Roosevelt was preparing for a conference with Vice President-elect John N. Garner, speaker of the house, next week.

Mr. Roosevelt was unwilling to say whether he believed the federal budget can be balanced during the present short session of congress by additional economies and a selective sales tax.

His advisers attributed his hesitancy on this point to his unwillingness to accept any of the reports from Washington regarding the amount of the national deficit.

Today the president-elect gave his approval to a plan proposed by the American Legislators' Association, with headquarters in Chicago, for an interstate conference of legislators at Washington February 3, to secure a better co-ordination of the revenue systems of the federal government and of the 48 states.

In a letter to Henry Toll, representing the association, he called the proposal "a splendid idea."

"Many extremely important public questions are pressing for solution," he wrote to Toll, "and among the more urgent of these is the very one with which your association proposes to deal."

In the past, the federal government has passed revenue legislation with too little consideration for state taxing systems and, on the other hand, the states have legislated with little reference to the federal revenue plan and with almost no consideration for the tax programs of other states.

This is not as it should be, I have given considerable thought to this problem and it is my hope to make at least a small contribution to a better synchronized federal, state and local taxing system. And I shall eagerly follow the proceedings of your conference, being hopeful that from it many good ideas will develop.

"I do hope that every state legislature will be represented in the conference and that the governors of the several states will appreciate, as I do, the importance of this movement and lend their support by sending representatives to the meeting."

Governor Roosevelt was pleased today at the arrival of a canvas likeness of him prepared by an Atlantic City artist named Perske, from a photograph Perske took for use in Mr. Roosevelt's successful presidential campaign. The canvas probably will be set up in the executive chamber, sometimes called the "Hall of Governors" with the portraits of other chief executives of New York.

Visitors to the Roosevelt office at the capital today included former Senator Clarence W. Watson, of West Virginia.

Colgate Executives, Salesmen Meet Here

Six executives and 23 salesmen of Colgate-Palmolive-Peet, representing St. Louis, New Orleans and Atlanta in the toilet goods division, are meeting at the Ansley hotel this week where they are laying sales and merchandising plans for next year. In the picture, standing left to right, are W. E. Stitzhorst, Atlanta manager; B. M. Dunn, manager of the Atlanta division; and E. B. Fox, district manager, St. Louis office. Seated, C. V. Morris, superintendent of the St. Louis office; J. L. Johnson, superintendent of the Atlanta office; and L. E. Martiny, district manager of the New Orleans office.

Daniels Praises Woodrow Wilson On Birthday of Former President

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 28.—(P)—Woodrow Wilson will be the central figure in "the most epochal era in modern history," Joseph Daniels, former secretary of the navy, told the Women's Democratic Club of Philadelphia today in a speech commemorating the seventy-sixth anniversary of the birth of the war president.

He quoted General Jan Smuts' appraisal of Wilson: "Americans of the future will yet proudly and gratefully rank him with Washington and Lincoln and his fame will have a more universal significance than theirs."

"As we observe Wilson's birthday," Daniels said, "we rejoice that this celebration comes on the eve of a return of democratic leadership in America. Is it not prophetic that we stand upon the threshold of an enduring period of democratic administration as that inaugurated by Jefferson and which would have followed Wilson's two terms for the representation of the World War? From 1800 to 1860 the federal government was directed nearly all the time by democratic presidents."

Referring to President-elect Franklin D. Roosevelt, the former secretary of the navy said: "Let us have faith that another half-century of equality lies ahead of us. Though grave problems and difficult tasks await him, the experience and example of Jefferson and Jackson and particularly Wilson, will bring confidence and victory."

Speaking of criticisms of Wilson, Daniels said "the serious mistake of Woodrow Wilson, at least for the time being, was in the character of his appeal for the ratification of the covenant of peace. It was based on an estimate of the virtues of the people higher than they had attained. He told the people everywhere that if America failed to lead in guaranteeing and underwriting peace, it would break the heart of the world."

"But if he wished to win the people, whose ears were attracted only to the love of money and what money will buy, Mr. Wilson should have concluded his appeal with these words: 'If you reject the covenant, it will break the pocketbook of America.'"

WORLD SALVATION SEEN IN GOSPEL OF WILSON

NEW YORK, Dec. 28.—(P)—The "gospel of Woodrow Wilson" was advanced today as a prescription for the world's troubles by Hugh Gordon Miller, chairman of the New York Southern Society's speakers' committee.

Speaking for the society on a program commemorating the birthday of the war-time president, the New York attorney declared:

"A decade has passed since Woodrow Wilson left the presidency. What he desired is seen to be what the world must achieve."

"To reduce armaments; with a world view of things; to readjust war debts and reparations; to break down barriers to trade; to bring the secrets of diplomacy into the light of day; to maintain the seas as a highway for all peaceful shipping—all this was what the gospel that he preached," Miller also declared.

"The world is standing today at the cross roads. On a blazing sign board the hand of Woodrow Wilson points toward peace. Other sign boards point to wars more colossal and destructive than ever. Which road will civilization now take?"

In telling how Wilson "carried out much of the program which had been advanced by republican progressives led by Theodore Roosevelt," Miller said:

"Now another Roosevelt—inheriting the Wilson tradition, born in the north, in part at least an adopted southerner, one of Wilson's pupils—is expected to continue with President Roosevelt's and President Wilson's progressive ideals, holding a mandate, as he expresses it, 'transcending all parties.'"

"On that basis in this crisis the American nation is expected to support him as it did Wilson in the war," Miller described Wilson as "the schoolmaster, who saw the truth and expected others to see it." He said Wilson could thus be characterized "from first to last."

In praising the record made by Wilson during the war, Miller said: "For the first time in the history of our race there was no scandal over war supplies."

Of Wilson's hand in bringing the League of Nations into being he said: "Even if grappling with the labyrinth of feudalism, that ideal should fail, at least a definite opinion was thereby, for the first time, communicated upon the demand for disarmament and the outlawry of war as an instrument of national policy."

In conclusion he said that when "history is finally written," Wilson, "with one exception, will be found to have merited no second place among the great presidents of the United States."

Miller told how Wilson's first speech after his election was made to the New York Southern Society and how in it "he said that if anyone in Wall Street interfered with his administration he 'would be hung as high as Haman.'"

After explaining that the society has no political affiliations, Miller said:

"However, in 1911, leading members of the society, unofficially and as individuals, furnished the initial funds necessary to the propaganda in favor of Wilson's nomination for president. The group included William G. McAdoo, then president of the society, who became secretary of the treasury; Walter L. McCorkle and George Gordon Battle, who became presidents of the society; Colonel Stuart G. Gibboney, now president of the Thomas Jefferson Foundation and then secretary of this society; and William F. McCombs, then treasurer of the society, who became chairman of his party."

Their sole aim, Miller explained, "was to lift the politics of the United States to a higher plane of civic responsibility."

Judge Jerry B. Sullivan, of the United States customs court, also spoke.

WREATHS ARE PLACED ON TOMB OF WILSON

WASHINGTON, Dec. 28.—(P)—Several wreaths, including one from President Hoover, were placed on the tomb of Woodrow Wilson at the Washington cathedral today. It was the seventy-sixth anniversary of the birth of the World War president.

Among those sending wreaths were Mrs. Woodrow Wilson, the Women's Democratic Club of Philadelphia, and Woodrow Wilson societies in New York, California and Michigan.

Rich Woman Recluse Found Dead in Home

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Dec. 28.—(P)—Miss Victoria Zanne, 70, who lived alone in the squalor of a dingy cottage although her estate has been estimated at from $50,000 to $60,000, was buried today.

Her death was discovered yesterday by L. A. Montedison Sr., her business agent and a distant relative. She was lying on the floor, her skull fractured in two places. Officers have been unable to determine whether she suffered a heart attack and fell, or whether she received blows on the head from a blunt instrument.

A coroner's jury found she died as a result of an accident or "at the hands of person or persons unknown."

Three decades ago, Miss Zanne was a milliner for the city's leading store of the day, and she set the hat styles for Memphis.

In the last few years of her life she shuffled along the streets in a faded black dress, carrying a black handbag. Her deposits in two banks totaled $4,500.

LEADERS PAY HONOR TO MACK'S MEMORY AT BUFFALO RITES

BUFFALO, N. Y., Dec. 28.—(P)—Thousands of local residents and persons of prominence in the democratic party today paid their final tribute to Norman E. Mack, veteran publisher and member of the democratic national committee for 32 years, who died Monday.

Funeral services were conducted at Trinity Episcopal church at 2:30 o'clock. During the last hours of homage to Mr. Mack his friends and former associates formed a seemingly endless line as they filed past the bier.

The funeral ceremonies, simple and unostentatious, were conducted by Bishop Cameron J. Davis, of the Episcopal diocese of western New York, and Rev. Elmore McKee, rector of Trinity church. Burial was in Forest Lawn cemetery.

MISSISSIPPI SCHOOL REGAINS LAW RATING

CHICAGO, Dec. 28.—(P)—The University of Mississippi school of law was reinstated as a member in good standing of the Association of American Law Schools today after two years' suspension.

Rufus C. Harris, of Tulane University, secretary of the executive committee of the association, presented the committee's recommendation and the 400 delegates restored Mississippi to membership.

"I am sure," said Albert J. Harno, association president and dean of the University of Illinois law college, "that our action had a part in changing the political situation in Mississippi, for the school became an issue and the party in power was defeated in the next election. It resulted in preventing the encroachment of politics in higher education."

The group also admitted the law school of New York University as a new member.

Resignations of the law schools of Furman University, Greenville, S. C., and McGill University, Montreal, were accepted. The Furman school has been discontinued and McGill was unable to meet association requirements for economic reasons.

Eighty feet above the shallow stream, Krause poised on the railing for an instance, then leaped. Women screamed.

A police ambulance arrived. Officers waded into the water, which is only two feet deep at that point, and carried Krause to shore. They took him to a hospital. Physicians who examined him, said injuries consisted of two bruises on his knees.

Farmers Can't Attend, So House Cuts Fair Fund

WASHINGTON, Dec. 28.—(P)—On this plea that the farmers didn't have money to attend fairs, the house today reduced the department of agriculture appropriation for participation in them from $90,000 to $10,000.

Representative Algood, democrat, Alabama, introduced the amendment.

"With 5-cent cotton, 6-cent tobacco and 40-cent wheat," the Alabama said, "the farmer hasn't any money to attend these fairs. If you really want to reduce expenditures, you can slash a little here."

"My liver was all out of order and I became so constipated that I had to take some kind of a purgative nearly every night. I suffered with bilious headaches—my appetite was poor, and everything I ate disagreed with me. Sargol Soft Mass Pills have made me feel like a new man. They regulated me perfectly."

Myron P. Harwood, 70 Lenox St., Rochester, N. Y.

During the last fifty-three months, 141,000,000 Sargol Soft Mass Pills have been sold. This phenomenal record has been accomplished because Sargol Soft Mass Pills are a new and revolutionary product in the field of laxative medication. They are not like any laxative you have ever taken. They are so gentle and thorough in their action that there is nothing about them to remind you that you have ever taken a medicine, and most remarkable of all, the directions call for a gradual reduction of the dose until the point is reached where you no longer require a laxative of any kind.

JAPAN REINFORCES MANCHURIAN ARMY

Tokyo Will Weaken Home Forces To Strengthen Grip on Mainland.

TOKYO, Dec. 28.—(P)—A fundamental readjustment of the Japanese empire's military establishment, under which home forces will be decreased to permit reinforcement of the army in Manchuria, was announced by the war office today.

The war office's plan calls for sweeping modernization of arms and other war material, for the intensive training of at least 100,000 officers and men in the use of modern weapons, and for several administrative reforms.

Although the number of units in Manchuria will be only a little increased, the quality of the equipment of the Japanese forces there will be greatly improved. They will be provided with more airplanes, tanks, heavy guns and motorized units, and with improved means of communication.

To possess the Manchurian army the forces in Japan proper will be reduced as much as possible. By official estimates, at least a quarter of Japan's standing army, which totals 17 divisions, or 230,000 men, at present is in Manchuria. That would be approximately 57,000 troops. Under the readjustment plan the strength of the Manchurian army would be raised to 60,000 or 65,000 well-equipped troops within two years, a war office spokesman added.

Funds for the readjustment were included in the army's 1933-34 budget of 448,000,000 yen (about $91,000,000) announced November 25.

A war office spokesman recalled that the recent campaign in the Manchurian region, which resulted in the expulsion of the insurgent general Su Ping-wen from Manchuria and brought the Japanese army close to contact with the soviet army.

"Although the soviet attitude toward Japan at present is entirely friendly, it is impossible to forecast the future," he continued, "and therefore we must bring our forces in Manchuria to a state of efficiency, modernization and mechanization equal to that of the red army."

The largest budget in Japanese history recently was approved by the cabinet and shortly will be considered by parliament. The budget totals 2,230,000,000 yen (about $446,000,000). The requirements of the army for future activities in Manchuria helped swell the budget.

Mrs. Eugene V. Haynes Bequeathed $75,000

Mrs. Eugene V. Haynes will receive $75,000; her son, Eugene V. Haynes Jr., $20,000, and her husband, $12,000, under the terms of the will of Mrs. Haynes' father, the late Daniel W. Whitmore, a millionaire banker. The Haynes live at 426 Peachtree Battle avenue. Mr. Haynes is the developer of Haynes Manor. In addition to the personal bequests, Mr. Whitmore left approximately $700,000 to various charitable institutions.

MOUNT VERNON, N. Y., Dec. 28.—(P)—The will of the late Daniel W. Whitmore, millionaire banker, leaving the bulk of the estate to the widow, Mrs. Emily Whitmore, was filed for probate here Wednesday.

Whitmore died December 17. No estimate of the value of the estate was made. Mrs. Whitmore gets $200,000 outright and the income for life from the residue after various bequests are made to relatives, charitable organizations, hospitals and friends.

Three children get $75,000 each in cash and a third each of the residue after the death of the mother. They are George B. Whitmore and Daniel W. Whitmore Jr., both of New York city, and Mrs. Helen W. Haynes, a daughter, of Atlanta, Ga.

Eugene V. Haynes, husband of the daughter, receives $12,000, and a grandson, Eugene V. Haynes Jr., gets $20,000.

COLDS ARE NOW REACHING OUT FOR VICTIMS!

Be Wise—Be Careful—Adopt This Simple Precautionary Measure!

Colds are increasing. In some sections influenza is breaking out. Don't be alarmed, but be careful. A cold is much easier avoided than cured! Do the sensible thing and adopt the ounce of prevention policy. Stay out of crowds as much as you can. Avoid coughers and sneezers. Dress warmly, keep your feet dry and sleep in a well-ventilated room.

Every morning and night take a tablet or two of Grove's Laxative Bromo Quinine. This will keep the bowels open and combat infection by cold germs.

Millions know Grove's Laxative Bromo Quinine as an excellent cold remedy, but not enough know it as an equally excellent preventive. Learn its efficacy and keep a package handy.

HERRIOT DEFENDS WAR DEBT STAND

'Scrap of Paper Theory Fills Me With Horror,' Says Former Premier.

PARIS, Dec. 28.—(P)—Unperturbed by criticisms hurled at him since the fall of his cabinet because of their stand on the war debts payment question, Edouard Herriot tonight announced that "I will answer the right and center when they attack me."

The former premier, who led a movement advocating payment of the installment due the United States on December 15, added that on no hypothesis would he have abandoned the policy of treating creditors as sacred.

"This was the policy I sustained as regards the Austrian-German customs union despite attacks similar to those made against me today. The scrap of paper theory fills me with horror," he said.

Meanwhile, a bitter controversy was anticipated in the chamber of deputies Thursday during the debate on the share of France in the Austrian loan. Radical members were divided as to support of the proposed League of Nations loan.

Much interest will be centered in the debate if M. Herriot will intervene, because the Austrian reconstruction project and the continuance of the Lausanne accords have received his support.

But the debate the American debt question also is likely to arise, since there are many deputies who dislike the idea of refusing to pay the United States the war debt installment and then turning over a large sum to a former enemy.

It was considered likely by some persons that the chamber will ask guarantees against the Austrian-German union and guarantees for safeguarding interests of the Little Entente powers.

For the most part, however, debt discussions were regarded in American and French official circles as being merely closed until March 4 unless new circumstances arise.

United States Ambassador Edge will see Premier Paul-Boncour at a diplomatic reception Saturday, but discussion of the debt situation is considered unlikely between the two.

The belief continued that Premier Paul-Boncour is ready to take the initiative in an effort to persuade the chamber to reverse its stand on non-payment of the amount due the United States.

AFFIDAVITS DECLINED IN FALSIFYING CHARGE
WASHINGTON, Dec. 28.—(P)—J. C. Duke, Washington attorney who has charged Justice F. Dickinson Letts, of the District of Columbia supreme court, with falsifying a record in a liquor case, refused today to act on the request of the court of appeals that he file affidavits in support of the accusation.

Duke, in answer to the court's invitation, said the record of the trial in dispute contains all the evidence needed to pass upon the case and that filing further data merely would delay the case further.

THREE WOMEN PERISH AS POOR HOUSE BURNS
STANWOOD, Mich., Dec. 28.—(P)—Trapped on the second floor, three women inmates of the Mecosta county poor farm were burned to death shortly after 1 a. m. today when fire of undetermined origin destroyed the institution.

The dead were identified as Mrs. Leah Wilson, 75; Mrs. Hiram Smith, 65; and Emma Randall, 55, all of Big Rapids, Mich.

Flattery and Promises Charged in Balm Suit
DETROIT, Dec. 28.—(P)—Seeking a million dollars for the loss of the love of her divorced husband, Dr. Kerwin W. Kinard, wealthy Kansas City physician, Mrs. Ada Lee Fort Kinard filed a declaration in her suit in circuit court today charging that the doctor had been led to the divorce courts by "flattery and blandishment" and promises of "a life of ease."

The declaration in the suit, in which Dr. Kinard's present wife, Mrs. Kinard, is standing as co-defendant, is a Michigan divorce suit, is defendant, was filed coincident with the disclosure that the couple have left the suit for lawyers to worry about and are now enjoying a delayed honeymoon trip in Europe.

Bronchial troubles may lead to something serious. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a new medical discovery with two-fold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth.

Of all known drugs, creosote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for persistent coughs and colds and other forms of throat troubles. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the infected membranes and stop the irritation and inflammation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of persistent coughs and colds, bronchitis, asthma, bronchitis and other forms of respiratory diseases, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if any cough or cold, no matter of how long standing, is not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. (Adv.)

AROUND LOCAL CONTRACT TABLES

By Whitney Cary

As this column will not appear again until this year of losing fines and atrocious distribution has gone into the discard and a new deal has taken place, it would not be out of order to register a few wishes for the bridge players of Atlanta.

To Mrs. George Blair, Mrs. Annie Adair Foster, Mrs. L. O. Carhart, Mrs. Emma McDaniel, Mrs. Humphrey Vagar, S. R. Fishburne, and Ed Nix, a continuous ringing of the telephone from duplicate players making reservations for tournaments.

For Henry Tompkins, concentration enough that he will not forget that certain things have been played. For Mrs. B. C. Dickinson, plenty of El Toro cigars and no failure of the match industry.

For Ralph Smith, a new assignment of novice players. For Charlie Mion, plenty of border line grand slams to bid. For Joe David, his third Red Book prize.

For Mrs. Gladys Peabody, plenty of border line doubles to make. For Mrs. Lewis Hamilton, a little enthusiasm over duplicate.

For Mrs. Joe Taylor, leniency on the part of Joe Taylor to let her play bridge in the evening.

For Baron Frederick Von Schaefer, the payment of his German fortune.

For Bill Luckey, plenty of new feminine partners for bridge tournaments.

For Bill Derry, silence on the part of his friends.

For Mrs. Pearl Williamson and Mrs. O. B. Keeler, another record-making duplicate score.

For Mrs. J. T. Daniel, to get back in the good graces at the bridge table of her son, Don.

For Miss Peggy Porter, a wrist watch and the ability to tell time.

For Lon Johnson, more young pupils.

For E. B. Zachary, a faster car and many scored passengers.

For the others not mentioned good cards and the intuition to take all fines the correct way.

They all say—I was in the sovereign state of South Carolina when it happened—that Mrs. Emma McDaniel's Xmas party Saturday afternoon was one of the most enjoyable affairs of the season.

At any rate I can attest to the fact that her Tuesday evening tournament was a well-run and exceedingly enjoyable event. This fixture was again won by that several times winning combination of Miss Lillian Mae Wilkes and Harry Dabner. Their score of 8 points proved just enough to nose out Mrs. Humphrey Vagar and Mrs. Aline Phelan by 1-2 points. Mrs. and Mrs. D. T. Martin were third, with 1-2 points. Nine tables were in play.

Many times I have had to swallow the statement that husbands and wives can't play well together. Nearly every week I find some married pair either winning or finishing well up in the score at some tournament. Last week it was the Fishburnes. This week it is the Martins.

This is the same D. T. Martin who won the recent Masters tournament and who is now preparing to invade Florida and the big tournament to be held in St. Petersburg the second week in January.

Ed Nix did not hold his parent-and-child tournament Tuesday evening. In fact, Edwin felt like holding nothing for the last few days save a prayer book and a Bible. Mr. Nix's reformation was brought about by a rather severe heart attack.

CULBERTSON ON CONTRACT

BY ELY CULBERTSON,
World's Champion Player and Greatest Card Analyst.

Duplicate Play

There are probably more people playing Duplicate Bridge throughout the country today than played either Duplicate or Rubber Bridge five years ago. The reason for the great popularity of this type of diversion is easily understood. It takes the game of Duplicate to a new level, and places it at an even greater premium. In short, the Duplicate player is practically never the victim of bad cards, because he knows that no matter how worthless a holding he has, there will be someone else at every other table holding this identical hand, at the same time or other, and that he will not be at any disadvantage.

Duplicate Bridge is not the same game as regular Rubber Bridge. The cards are the same; the scoring is almost identical, but the tactics of the players differ somewhat. The parts of Duplicate are played in a game on the combination of two separate hands is concerned. Therefore, the player must be able to try to bid the opponents up to protect part-scores is not nearly so imperative.

On the other hand, when playing in Duplicate game which is being scored on a match-point basis—which method is becoming more and more prevalent—overcards, which are negligible in importance in money Bridge, rise to great proportions when the Duplicate game is being scored. In other words, a "top" board is a "top" whether you beat the next team on this particular board by 35 points or by 600 points.

Strangely enough, the tactics which will win for the good player in the long run at Rubber Bridge will prove equally successful at Duplicate. In regular play, the player who is conservative and who is out being too conservative and who is steadier than his opponents will probably win in the long run. Similarly, in Duplicate play the steady, even colorless player who does not try to create a big swing on every board, but who merely is content to play for averages, will get the top scores—that assuming he is a sound bidder and good card player. In other words, by playing for averages he will very rarely fall below average and will get a good score every time one of the opponents slips the least bit. The superior player, who is continually looking for big swings and is playing for top or bottom, will find himself in a difficult position when a drying step-father tries to exact some promise or promise of him. Not many people, old or young, would refuse to grant the last request of a dying man. They are so unfair, most of them, these dying requests, a last and often futile effort to hang on to influence over the living, when the personal power of life is ebbing. In so far as the little brother's education is dependent upon the older brother's remaining unmarried, just so far was this request fair, and just to such extent should the young man be morally bound by his promise.

There are several possibilities inherent in this situation. The benefit might be responsible for it. The father might be using it as a lever to prize himself loose from an irksome engagement. But time and time alone will disclose these facts if they do exist, in reality.

There are mighty few loves and mighty few engagements that can stand the test of a ten-year probationary period. The tragic part of it is that more often than otherwise the girl is left high and dry, at the end of the time. Men are more easily diverted from the love of the moment than are women. Polygamists by nature, unable to endure monotony, thrown with all sorts of diverting people and marked and tickled by the other maidens as unattached, once they are unbound to stand still for a long time.

ANSWER: Your young man was put in a difficult position when a drying step-father tried to exact some promise of him. Not many people, old or young,

NANCY PAGE

Trust the College Girl to Wear Smart Clothes

BY FLORENCE La GANKE.

Look at the grand white lining. The coat is off and behold—you see a blouse of purple metal cloth, yes? You see the high neck line and as I turn you see the three small buttons of brilliant which bring the neck line to the base of my neck. Well, ma chérie, this is my dinner outfit. Hyacinth blue crepe as you can see for skirt, ankle length and smart for a hotel dinner? I thought so. Now look at my evening dress, the house and behold! My evening dress, all of hyacinth blue crepe, all but where there are bare arms and décolletage. I park my blouse for the day and I am ready for the dance. When I go home I slip on my black velvet coat, tie the flaring bow and I meet my escort who says, "I hope he'll say, like a million dollars."

Peter's cousin who attended college in a nearby town came to spend part of the holiday with the Pages. She had all sorts of stories to tell of class escapades. Dormitory gossip was at her tongue's end. Both Peter and Nancy enjoyed her stories, but most of all, Nancy liked to see the visitors who came to call on Mrs. Peter Page—cousin Nancy—who all called her and to chat with "Elsie—the Pages' house guest and Peter's cousin."

One girl, Vera, came to call on her from a tea to a dinner and a dance.

"But Vera, how are you ever going to get home to get dressed? It's almost dinner time now. I don't want to hurry you, old dear, but glory, it's ten minutes of six now."

"Hush your funny notions, Elsie. I'm all dressed and ready now. Want me to explain?"

"This coat I have on is of—as you can see—black velvet. See the nice big sleeves and the ducky how at the neck. Now watch while I untie said bow. I take off my coat, please."

If you are saving Nancy Page's quilt patterns which appear illustrated every Tuesday, you will profit by writing for her Quilt scrapbook leaflet which contains a beautiful cover design and complete instructions. In close stamped, self-addressed envelope.

BY CAROLINE CHATFIELD

Problems of general interest submitted by readers will be discussed in this column. Correspondence invited. Your name held in confidence. Write Miss Chatfield, care The Atlanta Constitution.

DEAR MISS CHATFIELD:

We have been planning to get married in two or three years and have a home of our own. My fiancé's mother was married a second time and a month ago she lost her husband. A few days passed and he came to see me and told me that his step-father's death had made a big difference in his plans because he had asked him on his death bed to promise that he wouldn't get married until he had seen the younger brother, now nine years old, through school. My fiancé had always said he loved me so much he would never let anything or anybody come between us. But somebody has come between us. He says he has no desire to break the engagement, as he still loves me, but he wants me to wait ten years and if at the end of this time we both still love each other then we can go through with the marriage. My mother is dead and I have no one to consult with. If he loved me, would he have made this promise to his father? Should I agree to wait ten years?

AUGUSTA ASKS PROBE OF $300 CUBAN TRIP

Use of City Money by Two Officials in 1930 Is Attacked.

AUGUSTA, Ga., Dec. 28.—(AP)—A request for a grand jury investigation of the expenditure of $300 in city money by two city officials, allegedly on a trip to Cuba last year, has been promised by Councilman Scott Nixon, president of the Georgia Association of Insurance.

The grand jury does not meet until the third Monday in January, Nixon said he would ask for the investigation at that time.

The councilman made his statement in arguing against a proposal to refund to Will U. Reid, chief of city detectives, the $300 which was deducted from his pay in 1930. Council approved the refund over Nixon's protest.

The money was advanced to Reid for a trip to St. Petersburg, Fla., for a police convention. Nixon said Reid and E. H. Hutchesson, president of the civil service commission, the latter not authorized to go to the convention, went to St. Petersburg, registered at the convention, and then went on to Cuba to a fireman's convention.

Council approved the refund on the grounds that Reid was acting under orders of Hutchesson.

TARZAN THE UNTAMED No. 166

Much to the chagrin of Zutag, the girl soon found she could not keep up with the ape's rapid pace. He kept constantly running back and urging her to greater speed. She caught her foot and fell. Then indeed was Zutag furious!

His eyes were waiting in the forest edge for him to lead them. Suddenly he realized this poor weak she would keep them traveling so slowly that they might be too late to help the great white ape. So the giant anthropoid picked Olga up bodily.

He swung her to his back. Then he started off rapidly to join his companions. The girl clung tightly to the mighty bull, but when he took to the lower tree branches she shut her eyes, expecting each second to fall to the ground.

That journey through the primeval forest will always live in the girl's memory! Later, she found that even with her weight, Zutag moved more rapidly and with no greater signs of fatigue than his unburdened fellows.
